Introduction

To the one who is elected historian of this Alumni Association there can come but two impulses: the one, to resign from the office; the other, to resign himself to his cruel fate. To follow the former impulse is to prove disloyalty to the Alumni and her interests; to follow the latter is to take the honorable course.

Having accepted the honor that has been forced upon me, I cannot help but feel, however, that your Executive Committee has made a grievous blunder in choosing me as historian on this special occasion. It is fourteen long, weary years since I have left the beneficent influence of our glorious Alma Mater, and as a consequence I have deteriorated mentally. My intellect has been dulled by the incessant grind of business routine and my mind is fast becoming a blank. Besides all this, history never was my specialty. I can no longer repeat what Barnes has to say on the Stamp Act or the Boston Tea Party. Indeed, we are all apt to have a keener remembrance of the Stamp Act of the Spanish-American war times affecting checks and proprietary medicines than we have of the Stamp Act of 1765; and the tea parties that are still fresh in our minds have probably nothing more than a mere social significance.

Tonight as we are assembled to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of our Alumni Association our thoughts are naturally retrospective. We are carried back to the dear old High School days when we sang from a familiar old song collection "FORGIVE AND FORGET." We can well remember how proficient we were as students in the art of forgetting, and how sorely our teachers lacked in the grace of forgiveness!

In this history it is not our object simply to recoin how many members of each class are still single (all hope having fled); or that A. G. Shissler and U. S. G. Moore are still "practising" medicine and dentistry, respectively, (neither claiming to have ever gained perfection); or that our worthy president is still in the grocery business and ready at all times to serve you with a nice mackerel for your Sunday breakfast. This is a special occasion, our Silver Anniversary, and there is a call for a more serious treatment of the subject in hand.

HISTORY

What is history? A record of past events. Not all events, of course, but only those of importance, else the paper supply of the world would be inadequate to record a complete account.

What, then, is the history of our Alumni? A record of its origin, purpose and growth; a record of the achievements of its members along the various lines of human activity.

"The Shamokin High School Alumni Association was organized at a meeting held on Friday evening, May 2, 1884, at the home of A. G. Shissler on N. Shamokin street. The following were present: H. M. Kurtz, Emma L. Wolverson, Edna L. Keller, of '82; A. G. Shissler, E. Boughner, H. F. Heilner, J. B. Brown, Minnie Smink, Emma Currie, Laura Huffman, Ada Taylor, Maggie Bonawitz, Nora Young and A. D. Miller, of '83. Mr. Shissler acted as temporary chairman and Mr. Miller as temporary secretary. Officers were elected as follows: H. M. Kurtz, '82, president; Minnie Smink '83, secretary; H. F. Heilner '83, treasurer; A. G. Shissler '83, historian. Superintendent W. Harpel and Professors G. A. Farrow, R. A. Zimmerman and C. F. Smith were elected honorary members."—(From S. H. S. Review, April 1898.)

The object of the association as the constitution sets forth is "to strengthen the kind feelings and maintain the friendship which bind together the graduates of the Shamokin High School, and to perpetuate the memory of Alma Mater."

THE ALUMNI

After twenty-five years our Association is no longer the handful of graduates of the class of '83 banded together for the preservation of a mutual tie of fellowship, but has grown to be a vast army of loyal sons and daughters united in a common interest. The Alumni has indeed grown to such proportions in recent years that it can no longer celebrate its anniversaries at a cafe or hotel as in former years, and the feeding of the host is becoming each year a more serious problem to solve.

Our Alumni Association has come to stay as a permanent fixture in our educational system; and as such it is rather an ornament to the same, representing as it does, the finished product of our schools. In this august body we find the results that the persistence and the perseverance of professors is capable of producing.

OUR MEMBERSHIP

Our membership comprises among its number many men of ability who have become real embellishments to their chosen professions,— lawyers, physicians, orators, statesmen, journalists, a rare theologian, and merchant princes almost without number. On the other side of the house we must not be unmindful of the many pretty school "marms", bright stenographers, and excellent housewives as an important factor in our membership.

The mathematicians of the old High School days are now to be found in the store, the bank and the counting house, making lots of money; the rhetoricians are writing short stories for the magazines and thus they eke out an existence; the ex-presidents of Clayo and the ex-presidents of Philo are following journalism and keeping the world informed as to current events; the Latin fiends are prescribing sure cures for any and all ailments with disastrous and fatal results; the bright boy in the civil government class has turned out to be a full-fledged politician who can swing his ward at his will; and the Greek student is performing manual labor and his lot is one of perfect contentment.

Some of our members have achieved fame; others, fortunes; many, families. And your historian is one of those who have been blessed in this latter respect, though having neither fame nor fortune.

Personal mention of those who have attained distinction in any way would no doubt prove interesting, but want of space forbids. Furthermore, the writer is not under contract to write wholesale biographies.

Whatever of importance we may fail to record, either in the history of our association, or in the life of any of its members, it must be remembered that the constant growth of such an army of loyal alumni, of which this gathering is a representative part, has been made possible only by the high standard of excellence that has always been maintained in our schools.

OUR SCHOOLS

It is a fact in the early history of our schools that the third building erected in Shamokin was dedicated to the education of youth—a fact to which the old settler points with pride. That was the beginning of the fine educational system of which our city boasts today. The progress and the development of this system for the past twenty-five years comes within the range of the writer's personal knowledge. Many of you will recall with me the old school buildings of former days,—the Central, the Academy, the Stevens, the Wickersham, the Penrose and two old buildings which stood on the present site of the Garfield school. With the exception of the old Academy building these have all been replaced with modern structures to meet the growing demands of the times. Instead of these old buildings around which cluster many happy reminiscences we have the following magnificent structures: Garfield, erected 1888; Washington and Lincoln, erected 1890; High School, erected 1894; Grant and Stevens, erected 1905.

The high standard of excellence attained by our schools is to be attributed to

- (1) Wise planning of an intelligent school board;
- (2) Capable supervision and competent teaching;
- (3) Modern methods and equipment;
- (4) A public interest in educational affairs;
- (5) A loyal alumni association.

Written across the pages of the history of our public schools we read in unmistakable letters "ADVANCEMENT", and in this connection we need only to recall the practical methods and experience of a Harpel whose life and labors were a constant inspiration to progress; and the ability of a Howerth who has done much to raise our schools to their present high standard and who is ever busy planning for still greater achievements.

It is the noble character of these men, and of many a faithful and devoted teacher as well, that has been impressed upon the lives of those who have crossed the threshold of their school days into the great school of Life.

THE CLASSES

One after another the classes of the High School have learned that commencement is only the beginning of real life. It is hardly possible for me to recall a distinguishing event in the history of each of the classes; much less a characteristic feature in the life of each individual member.

'77 and '82

As this history covers from 1883 to 1908 the classes of '77 and '82 are placed in somewhat of a "prehistoric" light.

'83

To the class of '83 belongs the credit of organizing the graduates of the Shamokin High School into an alumni association. This class has been a loyal guard to the Alumni, and its faithful representatives are present tonight apparently none the older for the quarter century that has passed since their graduation. Dr. A. G. Shissler, a member of this class, was one of the prime movers in the organization of the Alumni and has attended all the annual sessions. The genial "Doc" with his new bride is exceedingly happy on this occasion.

'84

The Class of '84,—of course together with the graduates of former years,—enjoys the distinction of assembling at the festive board of the Alumni on the occasion of the first banquet, whereby a custom was established which has done much to promote the spirit of good fellowship among our members. This Class just recently lost a faithful member in the death of Mrs. Ada Jenkins Reed.

'85

Thirteen young ladies comprised the membership of the Class of '85. The writer is informed that this Class for a while carried along a member of the opposite sex, but when the time for graduation drew nigh the young man's gallantry failed him, and fearing to appear on the stage in the midst of so much femininity he politely stepped down and out and was not graduated. As this young man's name does not appear in the list of graduates it is hardly fair to reveal who he was, but when in later years he took unto himself a wife he must have recalled well the incident in his school life when with lachrymal streams flowing copiously down his cheeks he fled in dismay from his school-girl classmates.

'86

The class of '86 was the first to furnish a member to the faculty of the High School in the person of Benjamin J. Thomas, now deceased, a man who was loved by all who knew him. His life was a noble example of true devotion to duty, and his memory lingers with many of us as a hallowed influence.

'87

The Class of '87 had some very peculiar characteristics. They were not so much a Class as they were a mere set of individuals, for they never had a class organization or any class meetings. Whatever they did together must have been by the coincident of contemporaneous thought and action. '87 had some very bad boys that turned out to be very good men. Five of the fellows at one time during their Junior year "organized" a marauding expedition into an orchard in quest of apples and, like the first man that ever attempted that sort of thing, they were discovered to their utmost sorrow and woe. The ringleader of the incursion has since reformed and is now a prominent bank official.

'89

The Class of '89 was a class of "deeds not words" as expressed by their motto. They were a class that "did" things. The Alumni probably had this fact in mind when they selected from the Class of '89 the presiding officer for the glorious and memorable occasion of our quarter-centenary jubilee.

'91

Recognition of authority is one of the strong principles of our glorious government. We should indeed be the last to countenance any disregard of regularly constituted authority. That would be wrong. But there can be an authority that will sometimes usurp and arrogate unto itself the rights and privileges of others. This is also wrong, and two wrongs never make one right. The unpleasant episode (and we shall not open it afresh) in the history of the Class of '91 must form a part of the history of this Alumni; and, without justifying the action of some of the members of that Class, we are nevertheless of the opinion that the parents of graduates, above all others, should be accorded special privileges on Commencement Day, and not be forced to the rear on the happy occasion when their sons and daughters are taking one of the most important steps in life.

'92

The Class of '92 represents somewhat of the "richman—poorman—beggarman—thief—doctor—lawyer—Indian chief" variety; for among its members we have Rohrheimer, the clothier; Boden, the educator; Keeler, the business man; Shuman, the trolley magnate; Welsh, the attorney; Edmonds, the journalist; Ogden, the electrical expert; Bird, the banker; and Al Campbell, the transportation manager. (These were the writer's noble seniors.)

'93

The class bearing same date as the majority of the Columbian half dollars at one time in its career had a weary road to travel. Shades of Christopher Columbus! How well its members recall that memorable tramp over the streets of Shamokin, and that too before they were paved! All this because Columbus in 1492 discovered the great American tract of real estate. And while the Exposition managers were a year behind with their show, the Class of '93 and all the under classes were strictly on time with their parade in fitting commemoration of one of the first events learned in the history class.

'94

The year 1894 marked a state of transition to greater things in the history and work of our High School. The class of that year was the last to be graduated under the old system prior to the introduction of the several courses. Text books were changed, and instead of advancing to "Trig" the class was given a second dose of plane geometry; that is why the members of '94 are such a plain set. Moreover, football had not as yet been introduced into the regular course.

The class of '94 has some bright geniuses among its number. One of these is Adam Rudolph Krieger. It was feared that Ralph would not be present with us this year owing to a thrilling adventure he had last summer. Ralph succeeded in getting through the High School, probably because it was "high" enough; but when he attempted to go through the School of Mines he was struck very forcibly with some new ideas, and he learned what his High School course had failed to impress upon him, namely, that a six-foot body cannot clear a four-foot space, and that the human head offers poor resistance to substances of harder quality.

The Class of '95 was not only the first to enjoy the splendid advantages of our beautiful new High School building, but was also the first to adopt the Cap and Gown for their graduation exercises, thus lending unity as well as adding dignity and impressiveness to the scene

'96

In 1896, as in a similar manner two years before, the Alumni did itself proud on the occasion of its thirteenth anniversary; yes, the thirteenth, but nevertheless the greatest and most successful in its career. A dramatic program entitled "My Awful Dad" was rendered with a display of genuine stage talent and stage fright in equal proportions. Many members participated and the event was enjoyed by the populace. Mention of this is made in connection with the Class of '96 as it was the event which marked the entrance of this Class into the ranks of the Alumni.

'97

Senior Class Day exercises were observed for the first time in the history of the High School by the Class of '97. On Commencement Day only the Valedictory and Salutatory were delivered, and Hon. John Wanamaker addressed the graduates. It was also during the administration of the Class of '97 in the affairs of the High School that the S. H. S. Review was launched upon the sea of journalism. The initial number,—Vol. 1, No. 1,—was issued during December 1896.

'98

The Class of '98 was also a Class of new ideas. The Senior Reception originated with this Class and the custom has been observed by succeeding classes. Another innovation was the introduction of the beautiful custom of planting the Class Ivy in connection with the Class Day exercises.

'99

The Class of '99 introduced an innovation by placing the majority of the seats for graduation exercises at the disposal of the class. It is safe to assert that parents and youthful sweethearts were favored with choice reserved seats that year.

'00

To common mortals the year 1900 was not a leap year, but to that portion of the membership of this Elect Body known as the Class of '00 it was truly a leap year. Theirs was a leap out of the narrow limitations of school-day environment into the great arena of real life with its larger sphere of duty and privilege, opportunity and responsibility.

'01

Only once in a hundred years can a class have the proud distinction of having all the inspiration that a new century can bring to urge them toward the goal of their ambition. Such is the boast of '01,—the New Century Class. At midnight, December 31, 1900, this Class stood, as it were, between two centuries, with back turned toward the old and with face turned toward the new, filled with fresh hope and zeal which led them to the culmination of their purpose in the happy event of graduation.

'04

The Class of '04 with sixty-four members carries off the prize for size, being the largest class that was ever graduated from our High School.

'07

In placing a framed pennant of their Class colors in the Study Hall of the High School the Class of '07 instituted a memorial that should serve to keep them ever faithful to their Alma Mater; and in establishing the custom of the Senior Alumni dance the same Class made wholesome recognition of the organization that afterwards received them as welcome members.

'05 ET AL

As to the few other classes, an honest effort was made to gain information through members of the respective classes, but up to the time of our going to press there was no response. Probably these members could not decide which particular one of their many noteworthy achievements to report. It is sufficient to say however that these classes in their turn reached the goal that was set before them, having finished their course "with commendable diligence and proficiency." Concerning the Classes of '90 and '06, it is the unpleasant duty of your historian to record on another page obituary notices for a member out of the former class and two members out of the latter class who have gone to their eternal reward since the meeting of the Alumni last year.

'08

To the Class of '08, joining our ranks as they do on this auspicious occasion, a cordial greeting and a hearty welcome! May they one and all be made to feel the warm heart throbs of a common brotherhood; and may they each one prove, as each alumnus should, a member true and loyal!

THE ANNUAL ASSEMBLY

Attendance upon the annual assemblies of our Association is the first proof of loyalty to the Alumni. There are too many members of the Alumni who never come "ni" to any of the annual meetings. But absence from these reunions cannot always be attributed to a lack of interest; there are those whose multitudinous duties furnish a legitimate excuse for non-attendance, yet whose hearts are aching to be present at the annual festive board. Too frequent however is it the excuse of a member that he has married a wife and therefore cannot come. It is a commendable thing for such a member to send his annual quarter, but we would rather have him come and bring his better half!

OUR ALMA MATER

Tonight as we are assembled in this most happy reunion our thoughts revert to the good old school days which we would fain experience again; for since we have entered into the larger school of life we have learned to place a higher estimate upon the educational advantages we were permitted to enjoy; and with each anniversary of this Alumni our dear Alma Mater gains a more sacred place in our memory, and a firmer hold upon our affections, even though we were in our school days like

"The whining school boy,
With shining morning face,
Creeping like a snail,
Unwillingly to school."

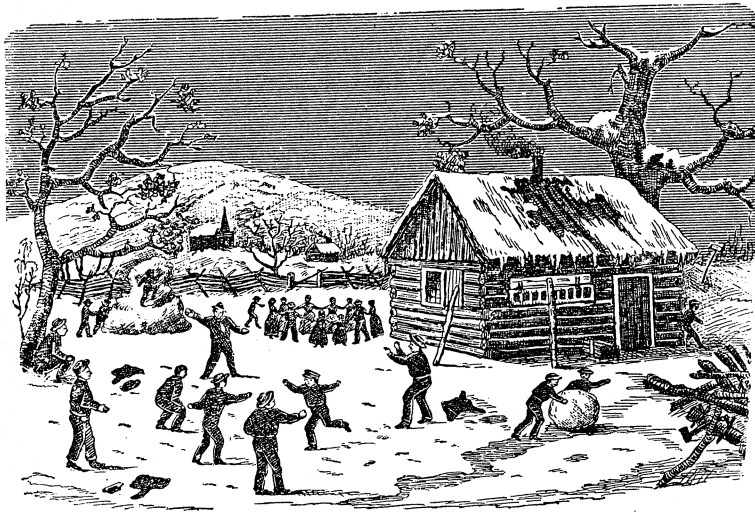

Looking back over the years of active realization we are reminded that the buoyant hope of achievement in the future has a sustaining influence that is precious and uplifting; but the fund of satisfaction that comes to us through the knowledge of successful accomplishment, as a reward of honest, faithful effort, is a legacy far more rich and sweet than all the hope of brilliant prospect. Such was our experience in the happy school days; such is our experience tonight; such will be our experience all through life.

Our reminiscent mood carries us all back to the Day of Commencement in our High School career; but many of us are transported as well to the happy days of the little red school house at the country cross roads, where play was emphasized as much as work, and work as much as play. There was the beginning, the "real commencement" of our education.

From Henry Harbaugh's beautiful lines we translate as follows:

"Today it is just twenty years,
Since I began to roam:
Now safely back, I stand once more,
Before the quaint old school-house door,
Close by my father's home.
Oh, where are now the school-mates, who
Here studied long ago?
Some scattered o'er the world's wide waste!
By fortune hither, thither chased!
Some, in the church-yard low!
My muse has struck a tender vein!
And asks a soothing flow;
O Time! what changes thou hast made,
Since I around this school-house played,
Just twenty years ago!"

There are those present tonight who have gone the poet five years better since they left the sacred halls of their beloved Alma Mater. Grateful are they indeed that after twenty-five years they may gather in happy reunion and thus share the privilege of paying honor to the institution that fostered them in their youth.

On the other hand we must be impressed by the changes Time has wrought in our ranks as the pleasant memories of those who are resting in the church-yard pass before us in solemn review. We are reminded too that each recurring reunion brings with it occasion for some fresh eulogy.

This much by way of retrospect. As to the future the writer will venture nothing beyond the fond hope that our schools may prosper and the Alumni ever prove faithful to Alma Mater.

Then let it not matter
In whatever we do
Or wherever we roam,
Whether afar or at home,
We'll be loyal and true
To our dear Alma Mater.

Historian.

Obituary

As we meet in gay assembly,
Often will the bosom swell
At remembrance of the story
How our noble members fell;
How they strove to bear our banner
Through the thickest of the fight,
And uphold Alumni's honor
In the strength of truth and right.
—Adapted from THE VACANT CHAIR.

MRS. ADA JENKINS REED, '84

Mrs. Ada Reed, nee Jenkins, a member of the Class of '84, and the beloved wife of Warren Reed, died at her home on Market street, May 14, 1908, from Bright's disease. She was a patient sufferer for many months and battled heroically against the inevitable.

For a number of years prior to her marriage Mrs. Reed was an efficient teacher in our public schools. Her exceptionally pleasant disposition as teacher and friend won for her universal favor and esteem. She was a devout Christian woman, and a loving wife and mother. Her death is mourned by a host of friends and relatives who, in their hour of sorrow, are assured of an expression of tender sympathy from an Alumni that ever cherishes the memory of its departed members.

HARRY B. HUGHES '90

In the death of Harry B. Hughes at the Fountain Springs Hospital, October 19, 1907, from the effects of violent injuries received in the discharge of duty, not only was the Class of '90 shocked at the loss of a fellow member, but the great heart of this Alumni as well was grieved at the loss of one of its most loyal members. Harry B. Hughes will always be remembered for the kind and cheerful disposition he possessed. The sympathy of the Classes goes out to the Class of '90.

ADDYE W. CONNER '06

Just in the bloom of youth, with brilliant prospects of a useful future before her in the interest of suffering humanity, Miss Addye W. Conner, on February 11, 1908, died a martyr to her profession in the Woman's Hospital, Philadelphia, from which institution she was soon to have been graduated as a trained nurse. Deceased was a victim of dread typhoid, and during her brief illness she displayed rare heroism in continuing her ministrations to suffering fellow mortals until the ravages of the grim destroyer compelled her to desert her post. Miss Conner was a member of the Class of '06 and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. The Class of '06 has the sympathy of the Alumni in the loss of so promising a young life from its membership.

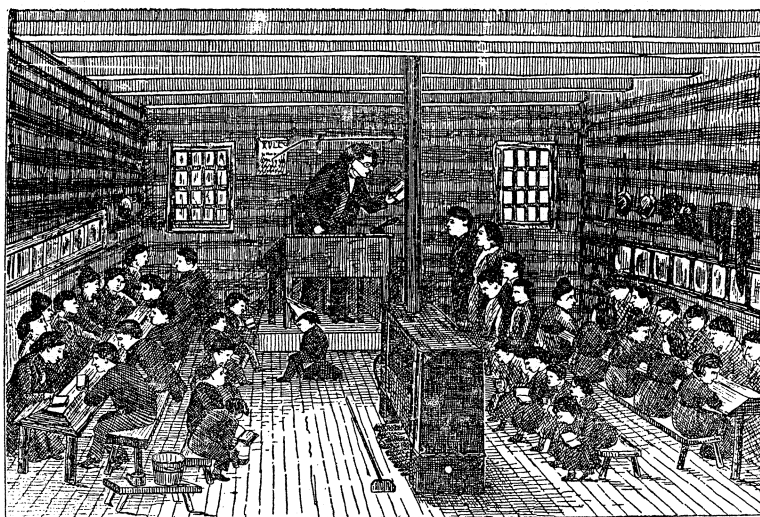

ALLEN I. HERTZOG '06

Allen I. Hertzog, an honor man of the Class of '06, died after a lingering illness, March 15, 1908, at Lake Saranac, N. Y., where he had gone in the hope of regaining his shattered health. His demise was due to tuberculosis, every effort to prolong his young life being in vain. In his untimely death the family has lost a dutiful son and an affectionate brother; his associates, a faithful companion and devoted friend; and the community at large, a true example of noble Christian young manhood.

In the demise of Allen I. Hertzog we are called upon to chronicle the second death in the same Class during the same year, and the Class of '06 is therefore assured of the heartfelt sympathy of all in their dual bereavement.

SCHOOL DAYS (With apologies).

School days, school days,
 Happy by-gone school days!
 Latin and History and Rhetoric,
 Physies besides and Arithmetic;
 These are the things and others too
 Numerous to state we waded through;
 Yet of all our past days
 The happiest were those
 When we went to the school on the hill!

School days, school days,
 NOW the actual school days!
 Out in the world in earnest strife
 Now we're engaged in the Battle of Life;
 Practical lessons now we learn,
 How to achieve and how to earn.
 Still we do not regret
 Our best days yet.
 When we went to the school on the hill!

"A Spring Floweret"

The Rambler

(Hillus Academus)

An annual of old standard variety; thrifty, though not easily cultivated. Plant early in September. Blossoms May or June. Matures generally in 4 years; sometimes 5 or even 6 years required. Develops best on dry hilly slope; after maturity will thrive in any climate. Finds favorite haunts in parks. Has been successfully grown for 25 years. With successive transplantings the bright colors of its original growth are supplanted by more sombre hues. The illustration shows a rare specimen with a flower for each year of its culture.

Shamokin H. S. Graduates

1877—1907

To graduate, or to be graduated; that is the vital question
That puzzles and perplexes us and oft provokes discussion.
We did not graduate from school they say, but we were graduated,
So we were, in terms grammatically correct and proper stated.
From year to year we passed and passed, and so as sure's you live,
The process was not active, then, but indeed it was quite "pass-ive".

Alumni Business and Professional Directory

To our Doctors and Lawyers:

All are architects of Fate,
Working in these walls of Time;
Some as M. D.'s highly rate,
Some as legal lights do shine.

Let us then be up and "didding"
With a heart for any fate;
And, who comes our service bidding,
Let him linger long and wait.
